May 2010 Distance Learning Advertorial Issue

This special section will combine advertising with editorial that explores:

- the results of a recent three-year study on how spiritual formation is fostered in a distance learning environment
- what schools are doing to help distance education students grow in their faith

Promoting your institution in the distance learning advertorial is a great way to reach an audience that values Christian higher education. Christianity Today readers:

- plan to continue their education: 30%
- counsel students on which school to attend: 28%
